One of the main activities of the DOE is the public promotion and awareness-raising of the various Energy Efficient Technologies and Energy Conservation Best Practices. This is done through seminars and workshops across the country and is a part of the DOE's Information, Education and Communication Campaign. As such, the DOE's project should stand as an example and be able to "showcase" these energy efficient technologies as well as have a good building energy performance rating to complement its campaign. This can be achieved by optimizing the major electrical loads in a building such as cooling equipment and lighting systems. This initiative shall serve to reduce the electricity demand of DOE from the grid.
